About the Host

Mollie Bauer has a long history in the parenting and pregnancy space on the web. For as long as her son has been around (almost 13 years) she's been one of the initial pioneers of parenting and pregnancy online communities and applications. She's one of the inventors of the first web-based interactive pregnancy calendar and one of the original staff of BabyCenter.com. Pregnancy.org was founded September 10, 2001 and continues to be one of the biggest women owned and operated parenting and pregnancy web sites available today. Pregnancy.org is proud of the over 4.1MM visitors to the site in the last year and hopes the growth of our extended family continues to blossom. We offer parents and parents-to-be a free membership that includes thousands of articles, expert Q & A, interactive tools like our pregnancy calendar and Basal Body Temperature charting applications, vibrant communities, video libraries, blogs, product reviews and so much more. All these tools help our members to feel secure, knowledgeable and able to make the journey to parenthood that much easier. Pregnancy.org itself is the winner of the 2006 silver W3 award in family and parenting as well as a 2009 Gold Horizon Award.

About the Show

Pregnancy.org Live: Before, During & After is an enlightening and educational hour well spent. From Getting Pregnant to Baby and Beyond, we give you the tools you need to feel empowered and secure. We're about families, pregnancies, and the journey getting there. By bringing in experts, celebrities, authors, and special guests, we'll cover topics that inspire, intrigue, and are thought provoking. Our goal is to provide knowledge in bite-size pieces so that women and men alike can digest it and keep it with them. We will attempt to recreate the "town well" and bring you important information so that you can be well-informed and ready to be the best you can be for yourself and your family. We've always been proud to be by parents (parents-to-be) and for parents (parents-to-be) and that's never changed. We are your home away from home. Come on in and pull up a chair.

Pregnancy.org Live: Before, During & After airs live Thursdays at 11 AM Pacific on VoiceAmerica Health & Wellness.
